

We Scream

ShopTalk: 10 Artisanal Ice Creams That Make Us Melt

Recently, we put 31 of the newest and best small-batch, artisanal ice cream flavors from across the country through a rigorous taste test. Exceedingly tough as it was, being able to bring you the mind-bendingly awesome, subtly delicious, and wildly bizarre is well worth the ordeal.

Mint to Be

A light went on after tasting Adirondack Creamery's WhiteFace Mint Chip ($65 for four pints). The intensely pure, clean snap makes us feel sorry for our former green mint-eating selves.

A Really Cold One

Delicieux's Beer Sorbet ($8) sounds genius, but opinions are split. Consensus: It tastes exactly like a bottle of suds left too long in the freezer. Your call whether that's good or bad.

Better than Childhood

Ruby Jewel's perfect Chub mini ice cream sandwiches ($55 for 20) elevate the form; creamy vanilla bean smushed between under-baked chocolate chip cookies tug on all our childhood summertime memories.

Excellent, Party Time

Nice Cream's Chocolate and Sweet Basil ($8) is like a mullet in sweet frozen form: solid, luscious chocolate in front, hot and spicy basil out back, awesome all around.

Chew on this: Professionally inspired ProClinical™ toothpaste from Colgate® uses technology pulled directly from the dentist's chair to cleanse, strengthen, and whiten your chompers. To learn more about the new Colgate®ProClinical™, go to colgateproclinical.com.

Un-Kid Friendly
Silver Moon's Pomegranate Martini sorbet ($8) is armed with a refreshing texture, spiked with two kinds of booze, and sure to leave you feeling light (but not light headed). Win-win!

Our freezer is stocked; to read about the rest of the flavorful contenders (avocado, Capraccino, and goat cheese included), go to ShopTalk.
